TEXAS COAST ON ALERT AS SUB APPEARS

Presence of Second Undersea Craft Hinted as Plane Sees Smoke Bomb.

80 U-BOATS ON COAST

Commander Says They Sink Only Stray Ships; 250 Lost on Liner.

(By International News Service)

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex.—The entire Texas coast was on the alert for the appearance of enemy submarines today following a night of blackout ordered after the sighting of an unidentified submersible, presumably German, 15 miles off nearby Port Aransas.

Announcement that only one undersea craft had been seen although possibility existed that a second was in the neighborhood, was made by Capt. Alva Bernhard, commandant of the Corpus Christi naval air station.

"One submarine only was sighted by a patrols plane," asserted the officer. "The plane circled and as it headed back toward the spot where it saw the sub, the underwater boat submerged.

"About three miles away a smoke bomb was sighted. We had no planes or craft at that spot and the bomb caused suspicion that there might have been a second submarine present which fired a bomb as a warning to the craft which was seen. However, no second submarine was cited."

Captain Bernhard explained that smoke bombs frequently are used by submarines during daylight hours as distress signals.

As a 100-mile strip along the Gulf of Mexico coast ended its suddenly-ordered black-out period, army and navy bomber and fighter planes continued a search of gulf waters for hostile U-boats.

The planes were ordered to sweep over a 250-mile stretch of sea and speedy, small boats were

Bricker Receives 3rd Term Backing From County GOP

Gov. John W. Bricker and four other Republican state officials had received the endorsement of the county G. O. P. executive committe today for re-election in November.

The committee also endorsed Congressman J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette for another term in congress from the 17th district and John L. Catlett of Mansfield for re-election to the state legislature. McGregor will complete his first term this year. Previously he served out the unexpired term of the late William A. Ashbrook. Catlett is serving his first term.

Other state officials endorsed by the county committee were State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, Lieutenant Governor Paul M. Herbert, and Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert. The four state officials will be seeking their third term.

Republican committees in a number of other counties in the state also have endorsed Gov. Bricker and the other G. O. P. state officials for re-nomination in August and re-election in November.

The Richland county committee took no action on candidates for state senator from the new 29th-31st district or for the state offices now held by Democrats.

W. A. 'Billy' Partello, Former Circus, Theater Star, Dies

William A. "Billy" Partello, 68, former vaudeville and theatrical star, circus performer and theater manager, died last night at Mansfield General hospital after a six-months illness.

Born in Toronto, Canada, June 29, 1874, Mr. Partello began his long career in the amusement world at the age of 16 as an acrobatic performer. With a partner who was not related to him he traveled for several years, appearing in vaudeville in an act known as "The Partello Brothers."

Later he and his partner were with the Barnum and Bailey and Ringling Brothers circuses for 12 years, visiting every part of the United States and Canada. In 1902 he organized the Partello Stock company and toured the two countries, presenting the popular stage successes of the period.

Will Speed 20 Billions For the Navy

Congressmen Set to Act Quickly, Send Army Bill to FDR.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congress went into high gear today to speed a new record-breaking appropriation of $20,000,000,000 for navy expansion, after sending a 12-billion-dollar army fund bill to the White House.

The huge naval bill was before the senate appropriations committee, which is expected to send it to the senate floor for a vote before the week-end.

President Roosevelt was expected to sign promptly the $12,556,672,474 army bill, which carries funds for 33,000 airplanes—23,000 fighters and bombers, and 10,000 training craft.

The senate speeded final passage on the bill with less than 30 minutes of debate, with printed hearings not even ready for members. Sen. McKellar (D., Tenn.), in charge of the bill, assured members that the committee would hold weekly meetings to check on expenditures.

The committee's report emphasized the tremendous step-up in the bomber program. Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, general staff air chief, was quoted as saying heavy bomber production eventually will be raised to 1,000 a month.

The entire airplane industry, Gen Arnold emphasized, will be put on a 24-hour day and a seven-day week to rush planes. While the planes will be manufactured for the United States, the president was given authority to transfer planes to any of the United Nations

Other congressional action included:

House received second war powers bill from senate. This measure provides criminal penalties for violation of priorities, gives the government authority to compel war production, and broadens the property seizure act. It provides for a new half-silver nickel, and authorizes free mail for soldiers, sailors and marines.

Congress sent to the White House a bill tightening the foreign registration act. It requires distributors of foreign political propaganda to register, and transfers administration of the act from the state to the justice department.

The senate was to pass and send to the White House a bill relaxing requirements for compliance with act under which corporations can amortize war plant expenditures over five-year period.

STEAL 2 TIRES

Thieves Jack Up Auto To Get Wheel From Parked Car.

Automobile tire and wheel thieves continued to grow more daring in Mansfield last night.

Police reports said the thieves jacked up a car belonging to David Mehalko of Shelby while it was parked on North Diamond street between Fourth and Fifth streets, and removed both the right front tire and wheel.

A tire and wheel was missing from the rear compartment of the automobile belonging to Miss Mary Rose Foran, secretary to Supt. Arthur Glattke at the Ohio State reformatory, the owner reported to police last night. She said it might have been stolen during the past two weeks but that she had just missed it. It was valued at $35.

DATES SET FOR SCRAP DRIVE

Old Iron Gathered In County Week of Feb. 9 To Be Melted at Empire Steel.

Opening of the county-wide drive to collect old scrap metal for defense was set today for the week of Feb. 9, it was announced by G. W. Marriott, general chairman, who said the steel and iron collected will be melted down in the furnaces of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company to benefit a Mansfield industry.

Marriott appointed a seven-member committee to conduct the drive and plans were being mapped today for a campaign that will enlist the help of the three trustees in each of the county's 18 townships.

All funds realized from the sale of the scrap iron will be used to help the county's boys in the armed forces by providing them with articles to make their camp life pleasanter and by the American Legion in its drive for volunteers in the army, navy, and marines, Marriott said.

City and county residents will be asked to donate their scrap iron to the defense cause, but arrangements are being made to pay them for it if they demand something for their old metal.

Members of the committee in charge of the collection campaign are County Commissioner C. L Mitchell, John B. Conard, H. D Moorhead, Walter Beckley, R. B. Gardner, Floyd Dent, and George H. Smith.

NOW IT'S BIKE FOR THE FAMILY

New Device Has Attachable Seats For Added Passengers.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—That little ditty about a bicycle built for two is in for some changing. Curtailment of automobile output and threatened rationing of gasoline has brought forth a new type bike—one that can carry the entire family on its Sunday jaunt.

The new invention was disclosed by the U. S. patent office in reporting today that a patent has been granted to George B. Dubois of Chevy Chase, Md., for a "multicycle."

The bike is constructed of a lead bicycle having a steerable wheel, with attachable sections of a single wheel and a seat.

Solidarity Affirmed at Rio; Peru, Ecuador Settle Dispute

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)—Western hemisphere solidarity was affirmed unanimously and Peru and Ecuador agreed to settle their 111-year-old boundary dispute in a triumphant-windup of the Pan-American conference here early today.

The conclusion came in post-conference mediation of the Peruvian-Ecuadorian differences several hours after foreign ministers of the 21 American republics had formally adjourned their two-week sessions.

Major fruits of the conference were contained in 41 resolutions — recommending severance of relations with the Axis, setting up joint military, economic and financial boards and otherwise covering virtually the entire field of Pan-American relations.

Ecuador was the last to endorse them.

Her delegation had insisted on settlement of the boundary dispute as a prerequisite.

This was accomplished at a gathering of Foreign Minister Julio Tobar Donoso of Ecuador, Foreign Minister Dr. Alfredo Solf Muro of Peru and mediating representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, and the United States.

Both nations yielded some claims in the area of roughly 125,000 square miles of mountainous jungle land which stretches for 300 miles north of the upper Amazon, agreeing more or less upon the status quo of 1936 Peru is to move her troops from regions occupied since July 5, 1941, a spokesman said.

Only Argentina, Chile, and Ecuador had not formally severed relations with Germany, Italy and Japan when the conference adjourned.

Military and naval officers of the republics are to form an inter-American defense board which will work in collaboration with the United States general staff.

GETS DUCKING

Argentine Official Escapes as Plane Pancakes.

RIO DE JANEIRO —(INS)— Dr Enrique Ruiz-Guinazu, Argentine foreign minister, escaped with a ducking today when his private plane pancaked into Rio De Janeiro harbor shortly after taking off en route to Buenos Aires at the close of the inter-American conference.

The pilot's wife and one of the other eight passengers were injured, however. According to eye-witness accounts, the motor failed almost immediately after the take-off and the plane fell into the water.

Ruiz Guinazu, chief Argentine delegate to the conference, returned to the Copablanca hotel, apparently not even shaken by his experience. The injured were taken to a hospital.

County Allotted 103 Tires As Allocation for February

The Mansfield tire rationing board today received its official quota of tires and tubes for February—a quota approximately one-fourth less than January.

James A. Bailey, chairman of the local board and county tire coordinator, announced that the Mansfield board will have for its February allocation 25 tires and 25 tubes for passenger cars, light trucks and motorcycles, and 48 tires and 83 tubes for heavy trucks and buses.

In only one classification is the February figure higher than January—that is truck tubes.

The January quota of the local board was 30 tires and 30 tubes for passenger cars, and 78 tires and 69 tubes for trucks and buses.

Bailey coupled his announcement of February allotments, following a meeting of the county tire advisory committee, with another reminder to conserve tires. Pointing to the downward trend in number of tires and tubes being made available to all motorists in the country, he urged drivers to travel at moderate speed, use their cars only when necessary,

CHURCHILL GIVEN FULL WAR SUPPORT

House of Commons Tallies 464-1 Confidence Vote For Prime Minister.

'HITLER HOPE DIMS'

British Leader Says America Wants Troops To Fight as Soon as Possible.

(By United Press)

LONDON — Prime Minister Winston Churchill won an overwhelming vote of confidence in the house of commons today after declaring that the AEF's readiness for early and close contact with the enemy further dimmed Adolf Hitler's "last remaining hope of total victory."

The vote was 464 to one.

An appeal by Admiral Sir Roger J. Keyes for a unanimous vote of confidence was challenged by the independent laborites, who demanded a division.

The prime minister, making the final government speech in a three-day debate, said that:

1 The wish of the American people and leaders was that "the large mass of trained and equipped United States troops should come in contact with the enemy as close and as soon as possible."

2. Hitler's last hope of total victory is successful invasion of the British Islands but the presence of the AEF in the British Isles "constitutes an important additional deterrent" to that enemy hope.

3. The AEF in Northern Ireland, which was protested by the Eire government leaders, "offers a measure of protection" to Southern Ireland as well as Ulster and "cannot do any harm" to Premier Eamon De Valera. (The British have been vainly seeking premission to use naval bases in Eire.)

4. The fact that well equipped American troops were sent to Britain will permit British-purchased supplies in the United States to be sent quickly to the Far East, for Australia and New Zealand.

AEF Leader Offers Fighting Pledge

WITH THE AEF in Northern Ireland—(INS)—"We will carry the fight to the challenger."

FDR TO SPEAK

Expected To Make War Report In Chat Feb. 22.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt expects to tell the nation by radio about the progress of the war effort around Feb. 22 and the White House said today that by that time "it is quite possible he will have things of importance to say." Presidential Secretary Stephen Early disclosed Mr. Roosevelt's intention to speak about the time of George Washington's birthday.

He said that the White House had been receiving by mail, telegram and orally, many requests that the chief executive make another fireside chat to the country "to dissipate poisonous and troublesome rumors and insofar as possible to give the country a clearer and better understanding of the war and all that it involves."

He said the president did not feel that the present was a very good time to talk to the people but thought late next month would be more propitious.

Fighting Rages Near Johore As Aussies Attack

MacArthur Smashes Enemy Assault With Artillery In Luzon; U. S. Bombers Rake Invasion Fleet In Third Macassar Strait Raid.

(By Associated Press)

The fateful battle for Singapore raged only 30 miles away in the jungles of southern Malaya today, and as "zero hour" approached, the world awaited an answer to the mystery of the island stronghold's $400,000,000 defenses.

A British communique acknowledged that Japanese vanguards had advanced within 30 miles of Johore strait, which separates Singapore island from the mainland, but declared that bayonet-wielding Australians had successfully counter-attacked and inflicted about 200 casualties.

On the Malay east coast, other Japanese columns had apparently driven to a point 40 miles northeast of Johore strait, with heavy fighting reported at Ulu Sedili.

British headquarters said imperial defense troops were "in contact" with the Japanese central front spearhead near Layang-Layang, a town on the main Singapore railroad 30 miles above Johore strait.

A mile-wide strip was being cleared along the strait in preparation for the battle of Singapore island itself.

In the Philippines, a war department bulletin said American artillery gunners smashed new headlong Japanese infantry assaults on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's defense lines in the Batan peninsula, inflicting bloody losses.

The war department said United States heavy bombers carried out a third attack on the big Japanese invasion armada trapped in Macassar strait, between Dutch East Borneo and Celebes island, destroying an enemy transport and setting another transport afire. This apparently referred to action announced by the Dutch yesterday.

"Two enemy fighting planes were shot down and a third damaged," the communique said. "Five of our bombers participated in the attack and all returned safely to their base."

A Sydney (Australian) radio broadcast said 46 Japanese warships and transports carrying 25,000 troops had already been sunk in the seven-day-old battle of Macassar strait.

United States compilations put the total at 36 Japanese ships

BOMBED: Australians Blast Enemy Ships In Rabaul Harbor

BULLETIN

MELBOURNE—(INS)—Women and children today voluntarily evacuated the northeastern sections of Australia, where the threat of Japanese bombing attacks is imminent.

(By International News Service)

MELBOURNE—New Australian aerial attacks in which one Japanese ship was hit and another probably hit in the harbor of Rabaul, New Britain island, were announced in Melbourne today.

A communique issued by the Royal Australian air force stated: "Japanese shipping at Rabaul harbor was bombed last night. One ship received a direct hit and another ship probably was hit."

Fighting was believed continuing on the outlying islands of New Guinea and New Britain, but absence of fresh news indicated that activity had subsided somewhat.

An official announcement said the situation on New Guinea was "static" and that activity on both sides was confined to aerial reconnaissance.

Meanwhile, Australian officials took steps to give immediate effect to the Anglo-American decision to establish Pacific war councils in London and Washington.

Prime Minister John Curtin conferred from Perty by telephone with senior ministers in Melbourne regarding appointments to the British and United States capitals.

It was reported that R. G. Casey, envoy to Washington, will represent Australia there while Sir Earle Page, now on a mission to London, will remain there as Australian representative in Britain

When permanent appointees are selected, they probably will be transferred between London, Washington and Canberra from time to time, it was said.

The Australian press wholeheartedly endorsed Prime Minister Churchill's recent speech to the house of commons, in which he recognized Australia's need for representation in United Nations high war councils. There was, however, continuing criticism of some of the other high placed British officials.

"Certain parts of the speech will please Australians, namely references to aid and representation for Australia on the councils," said the Sydney Daily Telegraph, "but less agreeable was his defense of the incompetent dullards, sluggards and short-sighted men who are responsible for most of Britain's mistakes."

RUMOR: Hear Hitler, Generals In Accord as Armies Retreat

(By Associated Press)

Sweeping new gains by Russia's armies were reported today as word circulated in London that Adolf Hitler, who five weeks ago ousted Field Marshal Gen Walther Von Brauchitsch and assumed supreme command of the German army, had reached a compromise with his generals because he was "unable to carry on without the aid of experienced strategists."

In dismissing Von Brauchitsch, a few days before Christmas, Hitler declared his "intuitions" had led him "to reserve to himself personally all essential desicions" in directing the war.

The British ministry of information circulated extracts of an article in the anti-Axis German language newspaper Die Zietung, published in London, declaring that the Fuehrer now had changed his mind and that commands of the conservative generals Von Bock, Von Rundstedt, Von Leeb and others "have been confirmed and they are now in charge of new armies."

The newspaper said the compromise was "equivalent to an admission on the part of Hitler" that he needed Germany's military brains to conduct the war. Hitler served as a corporal in the 1914-18 World war.

Amid steadily mounting reverses on the Soviet front, the German war machine appeared to be executing something of a comeback in North Africa.

British Middle East headquarters acknowledged that Gen. Erwin Rommel's Libyan counter-offensive, which had driven the British back 150 miles in five

250 Given Up As Lost On Steamer

SAN JUAN, P. R.—(U.P.)—The seventy-one survivors of the torpedoed Canadian liner Lady Hawkins, grateful for what they regarded as their miraculous preservation, gave up their 250 shipmates as definitely lost today.

Dispatches from Canada and the United States confirmed their forebodings that the two other lifeboats known to have gotten away from the Lady Hawkins probably had not survived. If no more survivors are found, the Lady Hawkins is the worst tragedy of the current German submarine war along the Atlantic coast and one of the worst of the war.

Most of the 250 missing were civilians, including a large number of women and children. Among them were American construction workers, mostly from the vicinity of St. Joseph, Mo.

The survivors told in detail today of the torpedoing of the Lady Hawkins on the night of Jan. 19 and of their personal ordeals through five days and nights crowded in one lifeboat.

The submarine sneaked up on the Lady Hawkins in a soft, moonless tropical night.

It must have known she was defenseless, because it broke water 100 yards away and turned two lights upon her. A minute later, it sent a torpedo smashing into the No. 2 hold. A second exploded in the No. 3 hold.

The ship heeled violently over, pitching 200 sleeping persons into the sea. The engine room was blown up and the power supply cut off. The radio was useless.

Then the Lady Hawkins caught fire, and burned for 25 minutes before sinking, while 75 survivors pulled away in a lifeboat, with drowning men, women and babies around them begging for help.

Seventy-one survivors were landed here yesterday by the S. S. Coamo of the New York and Puerto Rico Steamship company. They believed at least 250 passengers and members of the crew had perished, the heaviest toll thus far of German's submarine warfare along the Atlantic coast.

Reports 80 Nazi Subs Along Coast

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Rep. James E. Van Zandt (R) Pa., a commander in the navy who has just completed a tour of duty as a convoy officer, today declared that Germany has about 80 submarines operating along the Atlantic coast of the United States.

The naval commander emphasized, however, that these U-boats are now sinking only "stray ships," that the United States navy is doing "a damned good job," and that the submarine menace will soon be mastered completely as it was in the last war.

The Pennsylvanian, a naval officer in World War 1 and former commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, made these statements as he returned to his seat in the house after serving in convoy duty across the Atlantic.

Report 46 Jap Ships Sunk or Damaged

Draft Boards List Seven Stations for Registration Days

Men from 20 to 45 who live outside Mansfield and Madison township will register at seven places in the county Feb. 14, 15 and 16, while those in Mansfield and Madison township are expected to have an equal number of registration places available, it was learned today.

Selective service Board 3 had definitely set up seven registration places, including one in Mansfield, and volunteer workers were being assigned today to have charge of the registration.

Board 1 in Mansfield, meeting this afternoon, was expected to complete plans for registration in its district. Board 2, serving the east half of Mansfield and all of Madison township, is completing plans for registration at four or five places and possibly more in Mansfield and suburban communities. Schools will be used in a number of cases.

Men in the county rural areas may register in Mansfield, Lucas, Lexington, Bellville, Butler, Shiloh and Shelby, according to Clerk Charles Kirkwood of the board. It had not been determined today where the registration places will be in the cities and villages.

keep their tires properly inflated, and observe other rules for obtaining maximum life from present tires.

Richland county's quota for February is 49 tires and 41 tubes for passenger cars, and 79 tires and 137 tubes for trucks and buses. This compares with January figures of 61, 51, 119, and 99 respectively for the same classifications.

Breaking down the county quotas for the eight tire boards in the county, the advisory board made the following allocations:

Mansfield — 25 passenger car tires and 25 tubes, 48 truck tires and 82 tubes; Shelby—seven passenger car tires and seven tubes, 11 truck tires and 20 tubes; Lucas —one passenger car tire, no tubes, three truck tires and four tubes; Bellville—two passenger car tires and one tube, four truck tires and seven tubes; Plymouth—two passenger car tires, one tube; Shiloh —three passenger car tires and two tubes, three truck tires and five tubes; Butler—two passenger car tires and one tube, two truck tires and four tubes; Lexington—two passenger car tires and one tube, three truck tires and four tubes.

While managing the stock company he married his leading lady, the former Alice Kennedy, in Geneva, N. Y. At the time they were appearing in a play entitled "The Devil."

Mr. Partello came to Mansfield in 1917 to become manager of the Grand and Majestic theaters and the Mansfield Oper house which stood on the site of the present Madison theater. The theaters were controlled then by the Grand Theater Amusement company which was under the direction of a group of Mansfield business men.

He left the theatrical profession in 1930 and during the next eight years served on city commissions in Mansfield and was employed in the city waterworks department. Under the Republican state administration, beginning in 1939, he held a position in the state highway department, but was forced to give it up because of failing health.

He was a member of Mansfield Lodge No. 35, F. and A. M.; Mansfield Chapter No. 28, R. A. M.; Mansfield Council, No. 94, R. and S. M., and Mansfield Commandery No. 21, Knights Templar. He also was a member of the Episcopal church.

He and Mrs. Partello lived at 580 Park avenue west at the time of his death. Surviving, besides the widow, is one son, Winthrop of Massillon.

The body was removed to the Jones Memorial and services will be held there at 3 p. m. Friday with Rev. Glenn Lewis, pastor of Grace Episcopal church, officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

HEAR RABBI

200 Hear German Bombings Described at Meeting.

A first hand account of the effects of the Nazi Luftwaffe was given more than 200 Mansfielders last night by Rabbi Raphael Levine of the London Liberal Jewish synagogue.

Speaking before a public meeting sponsored by the B'nai B'rith lodge in the Johnny Appleseed junior high school auditorium, Rabbi Levine voiced the belief that although terrifying and hideous, German war methods could and would be defeated by the Allies.

He had previously delivered a talk using the same theme at a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Optimists clubs at noon yesterday in the Mansfield-Leland hotel

A. D. Smith was chairman of the lodge committee which brought the religious leader to Mansfield.

BRITISH BATTLE JAPS 30 MILES FROM SINGAPORE

MacArthur Repulses Enemy Assault With Heavy Losses on Luzon Island.

sunk or damaged up to yesterday.

In the critical battle for Singapore, these questions were paramount:

1. Will Singapore, with its ear-shattering 18-inch guns turned toward the sea, become another "Maginot line" — a defenseless shell when attacked from the rear?

2. Or have the British erected a secret network of death-trap defenses at the lower tip of the Malay peninsula, guarding the mile-wide water barrier to Singapore island from the north?

Pre-war dispatches from Singapore told of giant guns so powerful their detonations would burst ear drums at 100 yards and knock pictures from the walls within a radius of several miles.

But as the hour of crisis neared, it remained to be seen whether the great fortress — originally built as an "impregnable" defense bastion against attack by sea—may have become out-moded under modern conditions of aerial warfare.

Meanwhile, Japan's invasion hordes launched a new two-pronged drive into Dutch West Borneo, sharply threatening the chief city of Pontianak, south of the "white rajah" kingdom of Sarawak.

Pontianak lies 400 miles east across the China sea from Singapore and about 500 miles northeast across the Java sea from Batavia, the Dutch Indies capital.

An N. E. I communique said sea-borne Japanese troops landed at Pemangkat, 85 miles north of Pontianak, while Japanese land forces struck down from Japanese-occupied Kuching, the capital of Sarawak.

"Notwithstanding firm resistance, the Japanese are obtaining local successes, while Pontianak is being threatened," the Dutch communique said.

"All important objectives on the spot have been destroyed by us."

Official dispatches said Dutch troops were continuing stubborn resistance against other Japanese forces which landed earlier at Balik Papan, big oil port in East Borneo, and near Kendari, on Celebes island.

Celebes lies across the narrow Macassar strait from Borneo.

On the Malay front, a British spokesman indicated that hard-fighting imperial troops were still holding their lines intact, with no important changes overnight, amid heaviest Japanese pressure.

An official Tokyo broadcast said Japanese troops by Tuesday night had penetrated to a point 12 miles southeast of Ayer Hitam, bringing them within 36 miles of Johore strait.

The broadcast said Japanese forces were hammering incessantly at British mechanized units "trapped" in the west coastal marshes.

British airmen, outnumbered but ever dangerous, gave what aid they could to the Australia, British and Indian forces aground on the zone which ran roughly from Rengit, 40-odd miles northwest of Singapore, to the town of Jema Luang, 55 miles above the naval base.

A naval battle off Endau, 85 miles above Singapore, in which two British destroyers spurned the odds and sank a Japanese destroyer and damaged another in a flotilla of three destroyers and a cruiser was announced by the British admiralty.

The British acknowledged that one of the attacking destroyers, the 906-ton Thanet, was lost in the engagement Monday night, one of a series of blows to restrict the flow of Japanese reinforcements into Endau.

The British Far East command arranged for the erection of pill-boxes to supplement the work of heavier guns in the defense of Singapore island against a crossing of Johore strait, which separates Singapore from the mainland.

British Fight Odds, Sink Destroyer

LONDON—(AP)—A naval battle in which two British destroyers spurned the odds and tackled a Japanese cruiser and three destroyers, sinking one destroyer and damaging a second at the cost of one, was announced by the admiralty today.

The British lost the 906-ton Thanet, a vessel completed at the end of the first World war, in the action which took place last Monday night off Endau, east coast port of Malaya 85 miles above Singapore.

Her comrade in the fight, the 1,090-ton Vampire of the Australian navy, escaped without damage or casualties.

Names of the Japanese vessels in the engagement were not given.

Drive 300 Miles to Class Here

Shown above are the champion commuters attending the Civilian Pilot training ground school at John Simpson Junior high school S. J. Gully, 21, left, a bank teller in Farrell, Pa., and James Holland, 23, a garage foreman in Sharpsville, Pa., drive 300 miles three times a week to attend the classes. Both want to be flying instructors.

MAKE LONG DRIVE 3 TIMES A WEEK TO GET PILOT TRAINING

When the government awards flying scholarships to the 10 top ranking students in the Civilian Pilot training ground school here you can bet that two of them will go to two young Pennsylvania youths in the class.

"At least," say S. J. Gully, 21, of Farrell, Pa., and James Holland, 23, of Sharpsville, Pa., "we're going to give the other 25 students in the class a run for their money."

Gully, a bank teller, and Holland, a garage foreman, really mean business. They both want to be flying instructors and are aiming at a 200-hour course offered by the government after they win their primary flying scholarships.

That their interest in aviation is more than just a fancy is proven by the fact that three times a week, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays they make a 300-mile round trip to attend the classes conducted at John Simpson junior high school under the sponsorship of the Mansfield chapter of the National Aeronautical association.

Gully and Holland have been making the drive by automobile for the past three weeks. That's when the first class was started. The course will be completed in another four weeks. The 10 highest ranking students will be awarded flying scholarships, amounting to 35 hours flying time, enough to qualify them for a private pilot's license.

The youths usually leave their homes about 3.30 p. m. It takes them about three hours to make the drive. They get home, they say, between 2 a. m. and 3 a. m.

What bothers them most, however, is finding time to study their lessons in meteorology and navigation. It isn't the drive. They take turns at that.

Gully says he takes his textbook to work with him and when he finds a few spare moments he studies the theory of flight and civil air regulations. His noon lunch hour, like Holland's, is usually taken up with study.

On their "off" evenings, when they aren't in Mansfield, they get together to do their "cramming."

Dutch Bag Sub With Noted Commander

BATAVIA—(INS)—The N. E. I. high command today announced sinking of a German U-boat whose commander had been credited with 60,000 tons of United Nations shipping.

The sinking occurred in the far western Mediterranean, more than a week before the outbreak of the Pacific war.

The undersea craft was commanded by Captain-Lieutenant Gert Schreiber. A Dutch submarine also was lost in the encounter, which occurred Nov. 28 last.

Schreiber, according to the N. E. I. high command, was a classmate of the late Lieut. Guenther Prien, the U-boat act who sneaked into Scapa Flow at the outbreak of the war and sank the British battleship Royal Oak.

days, scored a new advance to within 16 miles of British-held Bengasi, on the Gulf of Sirte.

The British said Gen. Rommel's forces suddenly veered to the west and northwest in the last 24 hours after being stalled for two days in an eastward thrust. The new assault carried the Axis troops to Regima, inland and just east of Bengasi.

On the Russian front, Soviet dispatches reported a 93-mile advance by Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's armies somewhere on the southwest (Ukraine) front, along with the recapture of 90 populated places.

Russian naval dispatches declared in a summary of far north operations that Soviet submarines had been playing havoc with Nazi transports attempting to supply German forces above the Arctic circle.

The dispatches said Red fleet submarines had sunk, among other vessels, 45 troop and supply ships totaling 200,000 tons and declared that—if Nazi troops in Finland and Norway were suffering from lack of food, clothing and ammunition, it was due to Soviet naval activities.

Following the withdrawal of the bulk of German troops in Finland, a Stockholm dispatch said, their commander, Col. Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst has been returned to his old post as chief of German forces in Norway.

Churchill-Roosevelt conversations in Washington were delayed by a Communist party spokesman in Kuibyshev, Prof. Mihail Gavrilov, to support fully the Soviet plan to strike a death blow at Adolf Hitler's regime by the end of 1942.

A British raid upon northwest Germany last night was officially acknowledged in Berlin with a statement that one raider was shot down.

There were some civilian casualties, the announcement said, and residential quarters were damaged. The British said Muenster, in Germany, Boulogne, in France, and Rotterdam, in the Netherlands, were raided. They said six bombers were missing.

'Hands Off' Soviets Warn Japanese

MOSCOW—(INS)—Irked by recent Japanese newspaper editorials at seizures of Siberian territory, Russia today officially warned Nippon to keep "hands off."

A blunt and sarcastic editorial in the newspaper Pravda, official organ of the Communist party, promised Japan the same sort of punishment now being administered to Germany, if the Rising Sun attempts to take part of Siberia.

The warning was an answer to recent Japanese editorials urging creation of a Jap "co-prosperity zone" which would embrace a radius of 2,500 miles, including Australia and eastern Siberia.

"The Japanese journalists should draw a lesson from the German journalists who in the past have frequently destroyed Russian armies and have confiscated Russian territories—on paper," said Pravda.

"They should remember the old Russian proverb: 'Don't skin the bear until you have caught him.'"

whatever may be in store, Hartle declared:

"We are here in accordance with the president's promise.

"We are here in accordance with the traditions of the American people that if we are challenged we will accept the fight and carry the fight to the challenger.

"In the light of this, the American soldiers now here are particularly happy to be on British soil."

Maj. Gen. Hartle paid tribute to his British hosts.

"It is a privilege to be in the British Isles fighting for the defense of democracy with friends who have so graciously received us on this as well as on other occasions," he said.

The closest coordination of British and American forces is being developed under a plan for cooperative training, it was said.

Actual details of this training and the participation of the American contingent must be withheld, however, for reasons of military security.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1942.

The meek may eventually inherit the earth—but they'll probably never get a seat in a crowded bus.

Preference is given the long "a" in pronunciation of "rationing"—but it won't get you any more sugar.

Possibly it is the unsuccessful candidates for congress who should be pensioned—otherwise, how are they to live?

Humane Warfare Impossible

BRUTAL as it may sound to Americans, long schooled to humanitarian practices, the full strength of this nation must now turn to greatest possible destruction of the military force of enemy nations.

It is not by choice but by necessity that the United States joins in the task of slaughter and devastation, and the idea of sinking ships, shooting down planes, killing "enemies" and destroying their property is still as repugnant as it ever was.

But these things must be accepted as a part of the war that has been forced upon this country, and the ruthlessness of enemy tactics has shown that victory lies only in meeting their force with greater force, and eventual superiority in the air as well as on land and sea.

That naval battle in Macassar strait may later be regarded as a turning point in the Japanese war, as it is serving to inspire more hope and confidence in the ability of the United Nations to cope with the situation in the Far East and gives reassurance that greater fighting power will soon be available in that quarter.

It has already been proved that, with anything approaching numerical equality in the air or on land, the coalition forces arrayed against the Japanese are superior. It is now still more strikingly shown that, with half a chance, the Allies are their masters at sea.

It is now a question of giving the enemy much more of the same treatment in every branch of combat and on every vital front. Men, planes and materials must pour across the Pacific in a steady stream until victory is won. The next big job, if humanly possible, should be the relief of General MacArthur and his valiant army in Luzon.

Who Selects Airline Pilots?

MORE detailed information should be made public in regard to the pilot of the TWA airliner that crashed near Las Vegas, Nevada, January 16, with loss of 22 lives, including 15 army airmen and Carole Lombard, screen actress.

Report of a house investigation committee says that the pilot had been once discharged by TWA for "insubordination and repeated noncompliance with rules and regulations," but was reinstated and re-employed on order of the national labor relations board.

On the face of it, such action by a governmental authority seems unbelievable—until it is recalled that there has been similar procedure in cases of railroad employment, in which railroad companies were ordered to reinstate discharged employes deemed unfit to be trusted with responsibilities of positions they held.

TWA succeeded in establishing a fine record of safety in air travel, and much of this must be attributed to great care in selection of employes, including the right to weed out any persons who did not measure up to the rigid requirements of work that involves the lives of passengers and other employes.

If employment of airplane pilots, railroad engineers, ship captains, and the like, is to be governed by union rules or the whimsies of the national labor relations board, the hazards of public transportation must be regarded as much greater than they have seemed.

A record of "insubordination and repeated noncompliance with rules and regulations" is not the kind that one would regard with favor in choosing the pilot of a massive airliner.

Control of Agricultural Production

MAYBE Louis Bromfield, successful author and enthusiastic agriculturalist, "has something" in the idea that farm production is as greatly in need of one-man control, or "dictator" for the duration of war, as is industrial production.

That word, "dictator," and its implications, is not a pleasant one in the United States, but it is exactly what is meant in application to wartime procedure, and this country has now moved definitely into a war regime which will continue until the Axis powers have been defeated.

The national agricultural program has probably been more badly fumbled for a number of years than any other division of governmental bureaucracy, due to the efforts of congress and the administration to cater to sectional demands for preferential treatment.

If, as Mr. Bromfield suggests, a one-man control could "wipe out the red tape and conniving of Washington bureaus" and get rid of even a part of the obvious inefficiency, the accomplishment would justify the tremendous shake-up involved and might be productive of lasting benefits to the farmers, the nation and the world.

Sometimes mentioned as a possible candidate for nomination as governor (without his sanction), the talents of Mr. Bromfield, aside from the field of fiction writing, would seem to be more worthily devoted to aiding in the solution of problems of agriculture—in which his expression of views merits nation-wide thought.

Thyssen Was Not Alone

THAT Fritz Thyssen, the steel magnate, financed Hitler's rise to power, only to regret it later, has been the common belief. Now comes Gustav Stolper, a refugee writer on economics, maintaining in his newly published "Age of Fable" that this idea is exaggerated.

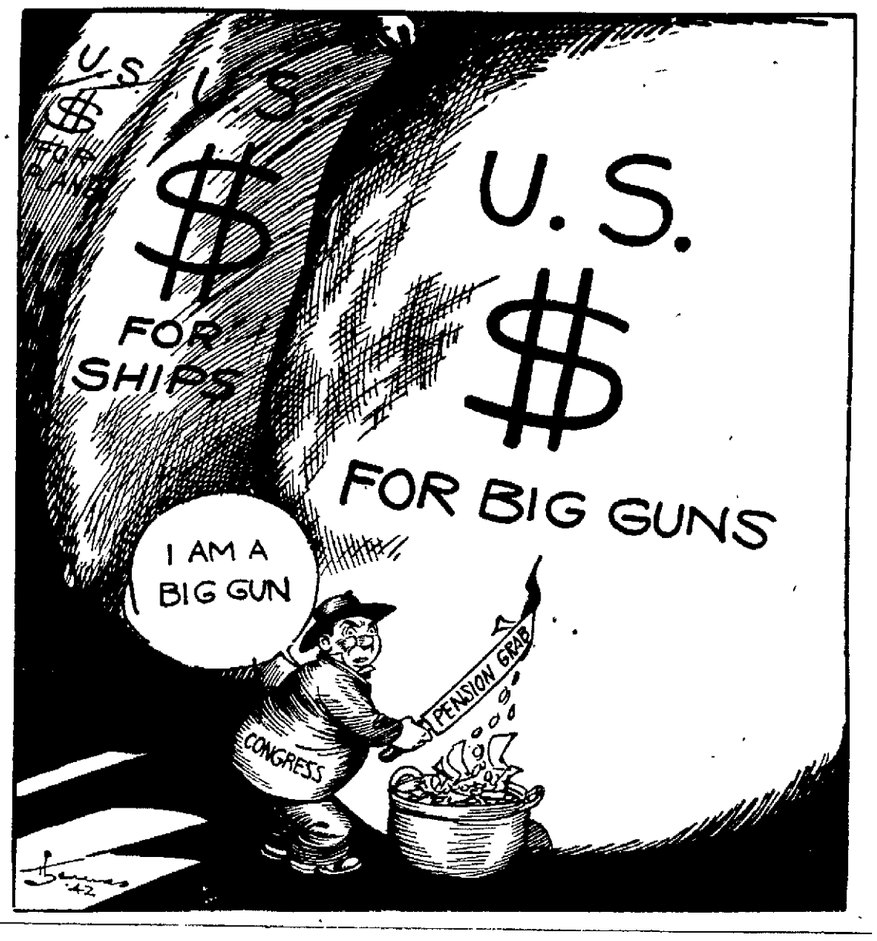
All Thyssen's holdings in steel, according to Stolper, amounted to only twelve million marks, whereas Hitler's campaign fund was forty-five million marks. The millionaires may have contributed to the Nazi war chest, but their contributions were only a fraction of the whole amount.

In other words, Hitler and Nazism had, even in the early days, much more popular support than is generally imagined. Their support, then, may be correspondingly deeper rooted now.

Philadelphia city water has been reported as "undrinkable"—but this may be merely a bait to attract more conventions.

As Robert Quillen explains it: "You can recognize a careful housekeeper by her belief that she smells something burning."

TO PRESERVE THE CONGRESSMAN'S WAY OF LIFE



Sugar Supply Cut By Restrictions

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—There is probably no bitterer group of farmers than the sugar men, both cane and beet. The very argument they have been using—though not more than one in a hundred of the sugar farmers believed it was sound—that national defense required we should grow more of our sugar closer to home against the danger of war, has come true! And it has come true after years of vicious quotas which restricted the sugar production not only of our beet states, and of Louisiana and Florida, but of Cuba and Puerto Rico.

Yet at this moment the department of agriculture, with Secretary Claude Wickard, all puffed up with importance since his victory over President Roosevelt in that matter of fixing farm prices, is running the risk of the same sort of blunder about wheat.

Another element is operating, of course. That section of Mr. Wickard's army of employes, which used to be called the Triple A and now is variously called under the label of soil conservation, is worried about the crusade against non-defense expenditures. So it is as busy as the one-armed paper-hanger trying to show how active it is.

At Wickard's direction it worked on New Year's Day, although O.P.M. took a holiday! Now it is openly worried and getting ready to spend tens of millions of dollars, which ought to be going for defense, to restrict the next wheat crop.

WHAT is really worrying the lieutenants of Mr. Wickard is that they want the machinery all ready to go into operation again as soon as the war—and the business of feeding the war-torn continents by U. S. charity later—is over. And they want to make sure that they, and not some new chaps, are leading the operation.

It seems to some observers that Old Man Supply and Demand would do a grand job is we only could have him back; if we did not have thousands of well-paid employes, many of them running over the country on government expense accounts, trying to curtail production of Crop A, so that its price will rise, and an entirely different corp of employes working just as furiously to try to prevent a rise in price of Crop B. Wheat is the best illustration of Crop A at the moment, and sugar of Crop B.

Not only would the treasury save much money in salaries and expense accounts, but in that enormous new building which houses the Triple A there would be a lot of office space urgently needed by defense agencies in Washington.

RISE in prices of agricultural products which are needed badly would spur the farmers to raise more of them, and decline in the price of wheat—to cite the one which they claim gives them the most worry—would encourage plenty of farmers to turn from wheat to something more profitable.

But that would not be planned economy, and there is no hope for it whatever. The farmers have been educated to a belief that they are entitled to high prices PLUS substantial farm benefit checks. And the farmers are every strong in congress. That is why Mr. Wickard won his fight with the president. That is why he was not thrown out on his ear for daring to oppose the president.

It will be interesting to watch, incidentally, if Mr. Roosevelt smoulders a bit about this, and cracks the Wickard knuckles on some other excuse, after a reasonable interval. But you will have to watch very carefully to detect it even if it happens.

It could not be too obvious, for the same reason that Mr. Wickard was not parted from his cabinet portfolio the moment he started his revolt. No one knows more about how to coddle the farm vote that F. D. R.

Church Above Rocks

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE OLD CHURCH stands above the rocks. It has stood there since Columbia was a mining camp in the roaring 50's. That small, battered building with its leaning tombstones, its ragged cypresses, has seen history boiled beneath it.

But, coming up the highway in the thin, sharp Spring sunlight, you do not remember that. You do not even notice the church at first. You only see the rocks.

Those miles of monstrous, naked rock—

Now there is a bareness natural to rocks. But there is something abnormal—abominable—about the stripped stone.

The place is not right. It is, somehow, dead. And, before it died, something must have happened—something furious and shameful, that turned decent rock and soil into this twisted hell.

Something did happen. The fury of man gone mad for gold happened. Once earth lay thick—ten, thirty, one-hundred feet upon these ledges. Pines towered, smoky dark, against the dreaming sky. Quail called and scuttled through the chaparral. Larks nested in the flower-tangled grass. Deer slipped—a file of dappled shadow—to the pool. The air was like a deeper, warmer pool.

Then someone found the color in a creek and, over night, the rush was on. Down from the Mother Lode towns to the north, up from the San Joaquin Valley ranches to the west, over the Sierra Nevada ranges to the east, they came...in curious tricklets ...in hurrying groups...in racing waves of men. And fell upon the land—

Today those men are dead. Some doubtless died in decent, quiet beds. But others had no chance to choose their spots. They took their death just as it came...beside the pan that held disputed gold...across the deck but held an extra ace...before some bar or brothel, wet lip stiffening while it grinned, hot eye glazing while it glanced.

So, one by one, they went. Now they're all gone. No bullets whistle down the empty street. No picks and shovels clang beside the creek. The hands that shot and shoveled are no more. But still their record stands in tortured stone.

This gaunt, gouged granite — these contorted crags — those ledges grumbling over secret, stagnant pools—hold all the story of their greed and hate, their frantic struggle and their furious lust. The rocks they shamed, shame them—now they are dead.

And yet above those rocks, their church still stands. They built that church, between their brawls and blasts . . . to satisfy some vague and haunting dream. Their gold is scattered and their flesh is dead . . . BUT THE DREAM LIVES ON.

They lived like beasts in pits they dug with their own hands—

But high above those pits, they set a church.

And always men dig pits with their own hands!

But always, too, they make a place to dream—

Of peace and truth, and kinder, cleaner ways—

And always, though flesh dies, THE DREAM LIVES ON.

Efforts to Soft-Pedal Report Of Pearl Harbor Commission Failed

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The nation will always be proud of and grateful to the five members of the Pearl Harbor board of Inquiry for their blunt and courageous report. It was a great tribute by true patriots to the honor and gameness of their country.

They had faith that the U. S. A. could take it and come up fighting to win.

But there were certain army and navy elements who did not have such high concepts. They favored less candor and forthrightness. If they could have had their way the board's report would not have been so damning of incompetence, negligence and dereliction of duty.

Softer and mealy-mouthed words would have been used instead.

It is an inside fact that in very discreet and circuitous ways these elements sought to influence the exertion of social and personal pressure on certain board members to soft-pedal their findings. These members know nothing about this, because it was stopped dead in its tracks.

Secretaries Stimson and Knox saw to it that the board had a completely free hand to act and speak as it saw fit. Like the board, they too are patriots who have faith in their country.

FDR Axes Lewis.

THE INSIDE reason why John L. Lewis was not named a member of the three-man CIO peace committee was because President Roosevelt personally blocked it.

When he and CIO president Phil Murray discussed the counter plan that scuttled Lewis' blitz scheme, Roosevelt advised that the new AFL and CIO peace committees be limited to three members each. That would avoid turning the joint committee into a "mass meeting," he explained, and also make it easier to keep hostile Lewis out of the picture.

"If you have too large a committee, Phil," the president added with a smile, "you may appoint Lewis."

"I guess you're right, Mr. President," laughed Murray.

Note:—Lewis intimates say he would not have accepted appointment to the committee if it had been offered him.

The Nelson System.

CERTAIN dollar-a-year boys who used to rule the roost in the old OPM are learning that those balmy days are over.

One of these masterminds got a short but pointed lesson on this fact the other day. War production chief Donald Nelson called him in and outlined a certain job he wanted done and how it should be done.

"Is this all clear to you?" Nelson said.

"Yes, but we've been doing it differently. Now I suggest. . . ."

Interrupting, Nelson carefully repeated his instructions and then, looking the dollar-a-yearer squarely in the eye, said quietly, "Do you understand now what I want?"

"Yes, sir," was the meek reply.

Farm Sentiment.

AS IOWA Republican leader made a very significant survey of farmer sentiment that the masterminds of congress and the treasury and agriculture departments would find it very profitable to give heed to.

They would get some very valuable information on the views of real farmers, as distinguished from those of the lobbyists and politicians who claim to represent them in Washington.

The survey was made by Don L Berry, director of the Republican Farm Study committee. Berry sent out a questionnaire to every farmer in his home county, Warren. This is what the replies showed:

1. That an overwhelming majority of the farmers were opposed to the amendment written into the price control bill by Senator Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming, fixing a mandatory farm parity level of 125 per cent. The attitude of the farmers was that the amendment would cause the public to consider them as trying to profiteer out of the war, and that this might lead to a wave of hostility that would wipe out many of the gains won by agriculture through years of patient effort.
2. A majority of two to one of the farmers favor continuance of the conservation (crop control benefit) payments.
3. A similar majority expressed themselves willing to take their benefit payments in the form of defense bonds and stamps.

More Guam Postscript.

RECENTLY, under the caption "Postscript on Guam," this column printed portions of a house debate that preceded the defeat of an appropriation sought by the navy to fortify Guam, strategic Pacific base now in Japanese hands.

The house masterminds who killed this national defense measure weren't the only ones in congress who held such "statesmanlike" views. The senate also had its share of them, as the Congressional Record shows.

Here are excerpts from a senate debate on the issue of fortifying Guam:

Senator Clyde M. Reed, Kansas Republican—"I am opposed to extending our line of defense to Guam. Our national defense policy should be confined to the defense of the Western Hemisphere. By no stretch of the imagination can the fortification of Guam be considered as a national defense matter from the standpoint of either the United States or the Western Hemisphere.

"Its fortification would be useful only in an aggressive war against an Asiatic nation. I do not contemplate any such war, and shall not vote for any appropriation of money which even remotely contemplates that end."

Senator Henrik Shipstead, bitter-tongued Minnesota isolationist— "I can see no immediate danger of attack upon the United States by any foreign country." Later Shipstead inserted in the Congressional Record a strongly-worded article against fortifying Guam.

The late Senator Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota, who had close relations with George Sylvester Viereck, indicted Nazi agent, also took an active part in the discussion, ridiculing the fortification proposal as impractical and a waste of the taxpayers' money.

"Some people are seeing spooks and bogeymen in their attics when they speak of an invasion of this country," Lundeen declared. "What country is going to invade us? The Japanese are too smart to attack this great nation. No nation or combination of nations will attack us in this generation."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Cafe talk around New York took a new turn after the impact of Carole Lombard's death wore off. The crepes suzette patriots suddenly became critical of the prominence given Miss Lombard's name over men in uniform.

Many sent indignant telegrams, and more than one well-known radio commentator—among them Cal Tinny and Elmer Davis—wondered out loud why an actress should receive top billing over men of the United States armed forces who died when their ship plunged into the side of Table Mountain.

I DO not share this view. To have presented the story in any other way would have been questionable journalism. It is taking nothing away from those brave officers and enlisted men to say that Miss Lombard was eminently more newsworthy than any single person on the plane. She may not have been more valuable to the country, but she certainly reached into more lives than any combination of the others were apt to, and she scarcely can be blamed if she represented to millions a concrete, human personality while her colleagues, however deserving, remained largely anonymous figures.

In featuring Miss Lombard's name in the headlines no evaluation of personnel was intended. This may be a blunt commentary on modern civilization, but since when hasn't a dead celebrity been a more valuable headline property than a dead soldier, whose business is violence? You can prove this easily enough by remembering that there have been a score of plane crashes in various sections of the country in the last few weeks. Can you remember where, and why, or who died in them? If you can't it's your own fault. This information has all been printed in the newspapers. In black and white.

IT HAS been printed just as freely and just as lucidly as the accounts of Miss Lombard's death. Nobody paid too much attention to those details. We read them and were sorry and straightaway forgot them. We said to ourselves "Well, more planes are in the air than ever before, so there's bound to be more accidents." It was only when chance put a woman who was a civilian as well as an actress into a doomed ship with a number of fighting men that people — as an afterthought — began saying, "How come she gets all the fanfare! How about the soldiers who gave their lives for our defense!"

THAT'S a human reaction, I suppose, but it's an unthinking one. Miss Lombard isn't enjoying the fanfare. It is well to remember that her press agent is dead too, so it couldn't have been a Hollywood "stunt."

I seem to recall an actor named Rudolph Valentino who died and sent the entire nation into mourning. At the Campbell funeral parlors on Broadway, where his body lay in state, the mobs were so out-of-hand that hundreds of mounted policeman were not sufficient to keep the street open. Traffic had to be rerouted through different thoroughfares. Headlines on newspapers throughout the country were in black type for days. Women in San Francisco and in Rome and in Miami fainted.

Later, it was discovered that Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard University, had also died.

Valentino had pushed him clear off the front page.

'Possums In Henhouse

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WENT out to the barn about ten, as usual, to see that all the animals were properly housed for the night. I looked into each stall. The Jersey cow greeted me with a low of welcome, the hogs, two different pens, ran to their troughs, but were disappointed. I opened the hen house gate and flashed the light over roosting chickens.

Side by side, in decorous rows, many of them asleep, they reminded me of a rural congregation that used to assemble in the white church on the hill. A few had even ranged themselves above the rest upon a narrow extended two-by-four—perhaps those were the winged choir. The atmosphere was quiet and serene, with only a mere murmur of distaste at my intrusion.

I went to the double row of nests where the eggs are gathered every afternoon. But I have always found that some members of a feathered flock will delay their daily duties until the winter day is near a close. My errand here was to collect the tardy efforts of such individuals.

Beneath the lower tier of nests is a space more than four inches above the ground, where I thought perhaps some hen had tried to conceal her nest, so I trained the light into every dusky corner. I found no eggs, but sticking out from beneath the farthest board were two gray-brown, hairless, quivering tails more than ten inches long and as thick as my index finger. I waited patiently with a steady light until I saw two pointed pinkish snouts. The dark beady eyes looked squarely into my face, with an expression of curiosity, rather than fear. All three of us were doubtless surprised at what we saw.

I closed the door and hurried in to tell the older children "Two young 'possums are in the chicken house. If you'll help me catch them, you can have the money they'll bring in town."

The boys ran eagerly to find an empty feed sack, which I carried. The oldest boy caught the first 'possum by the tail and held him up, blinking and grinning and kicking before he dropped into the open sack. (As usual, I held the bag.) The boy ran back to get the second, and larger grizzled prize. This one was in the very act of curling cozily into a soft round nest. The tail protruded like a tempting handle. The boy's hand gripped this caudal appendage and drew him out, protesting every inch with his grasping feet.

"What were they doing here?" the children wondered.

"Maybe that's why so many eggs were smeary, and one occasionally broken," remarked sister—whose duty it is to gather the eggs every afternoon. "'Possums will eat eggs, won't they?"

"These won't eat any more," piped up the younger brother. "We'll take 'em in to that fur shop on the way to school tomorrow."

COUNTY READY TO OPEN TAX COLLECTIONS

Treasurer Says Statements For 30,000 Land Parcels Go Out Next Week.

County Treasurer Charles C. Payne next Thursday will begin collecting the county's real estate tax bill for the year which amounts to $1,512,389, approximately $5,000 more than last year's charge.

Tax statements will be mailed early next week to the owners of more than 30,000 parcels of land in the city and county. The tax books will be open until March 20, permitting payment until then without penalty.

The treasurer said the increase in the charge represents new buildings which have been added to the tax duplicate. The increase in real estate taxes actually will be $14,111 for the year, but a $9,119 drop in special assessments on real estate reduces the next increase to about $5,000.

Payne said heavy payment of delinquent special levies during the past year accounted for the reduced special assessment charge which covers the levy on white way lighting and street improvements.

Mansfield and Madison township property owners will be asked to pay $1,028,695, or about two-thirds, of the total county tax bill, reflecting the heavy concentration of wealth in the immediate Mansfield area. The tax charge outside Madison township amounts to $483,694.

The county charge for the first half of the year, or the taxes which must be paid from Feb. 5 to March 20, totals $679,432. The treasurer expects collections to top that figure, however, since payments probably will be made on delinquencies and in advance on the last-half collection.

If a property owner does not receive a statement within the next two weeks, that does not exempt him from paying taxes, Payne said. Not all the addresses on file at the treasurer's office are accurate and some of the statements may not reach the addressees.

In the event a taxpayer does not receive a statement within a reasonable time after the bills have been mailed next week, he should notify the treasurer's office, giving his address and the description of his property, and a statement will be mailed, the treasurer said.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Olga's light amused laughter drifted over the telephone to me.

"Fortunately, I don't have to tell him anything," she said. "Directly after you left he had a call from the theater, and he has gone over there. He will be away for at least an hour."

"And my errand will take only five minutes," I told her.

"Then au revoir," she said, and the click of her receiver coincided with mine.

Gives Olga The Plan.

I was at the door waiting for her knock, and swung it open wide for her to enter.

"I want to tell you what I have just told Olina," I said, "and ask your approval of something I want her to do. I must do this in short order, for I have to keep that appointment with Stephan Redfield."

"My approval is already given," she said graciously, "and I will promise not to interrupt you."

"Interrupt me whenever you wish," I told her. Then swiftly I recounted to her everything I had just told Olia, including the service I wished of her daughter.

Her beautiful eyebrows knitted slightly as I mentionad Olina's making a third with Mary and Redfield, and I knew the idea was distasteful to her. But they cleared again.

"Of course, my dear Madge," she said. "I shall be glad to have h er do anything in her power to help you. I don't know what her father will say, but I daresay I shall be able to manage him."

"I have no doubt of that," I told her, smiling, and then repeated the warning I had given Olina concerning the necessity of keeping Philip in ignorance for the present of our suspicions of Redfield.

"I shall tell my father that it is imperative he give what information he has concerning Redfield to your husband without delay," I said, "but until he does tell him, no one else must."

Wise Precaution.

"I think that is a very wise precaution," Olga said. "Philip would receive such disquiting information from your father with better grace than from anyone else. And he would become less excited."

"I am sure of that," I returned, with a vivid memory of the way the great impresario had received a vague hint of mine that Stephen might remotely know something connected with Marion's disappearance.

"And now," she said, rising, "I am sure it is almost time for you to leave here. If you'll just show us where Olina is to wait—and you won't object to my waiting with her until your message comes, will you?"

"Indeed no," I told her, quickly. "And I shall be glad to have you stay there while she is in here. There is only one stipulation I wish to make. If you both will come with me now, I will show you what I mean."

I led the way to the camouflaged door panel leading from my bedroom to the adjoining apartment, and took from my desk a key which I handed to her.

"This locks the door on the other side," I said, and I wish you would lock it immediately you go in there. I will lock it from this side. Then if Redfield should wish to be sure that no other ears than mine hear our talk, and should ask to see this door—he already knows about this camouflaged entrance—I should be able to reassure him that no one can come into my apartment without my knowledge.

"We shall lock it directly," Olga said. "We shall do no talking above a whisper while we are in there, and Olina will be ready to come to you as soon as you slip the paper beneath the door."

They went through the door as she spoke, closed it, and I heard the key turn in the lock upon their side. I locked my own side and put the key back in its hiding place. Then, and not without a distinct feeling of trepidation, I started for Stephen Redfield's apartment.

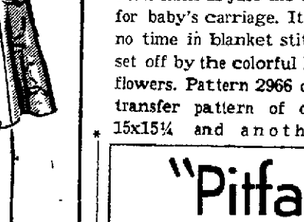
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO-SUIT DOUBLES SAD

MORE important than having at least a certain total amount of strength, when you make a take-out or informative double, is that you have correct distribution. Stated simply, that may be summed up as meaning "not a good two-suiter." When you have a two-suited hand, it is highly important to show one of the suits at your first turn. No matter what the opponents do then, perhaps in an effort to crowd you, they can't keep you from telling your story when you get another chance. If your hand is of doubling strength, bid one more than necessary to overcall. If it is not that strong, make a minimum bid of one suit.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♣	Dbl	2 ♣	Pass
5 ♣	Dbl
2. 1 ♣	Dbl	1 ♦	Pass
5 ♦	Dbl

This deal, selected from another duplicate game, was put into the boards for a social duplicate in New York, to see what pretty good players would do with it. The bidding given above occurred at two tables. At each of these, West took the unsound action, but his North opponent knew the most effective use of a bid over an intervening double—to show weakness. Notice how it crowded the strong side right out of its birthright. In each case, South read his partner aright and jumped high enough to shut out the well-advertised strength of the enemy.

In several cases where the unsound double was made, North passed, and the moment East responded it was easy for his side to reach the slam. North should not have passed with a hand that weak, including such a good fit for his partner, but only with a pretty fair hand.

Where West bid 2-Spades or 2-Hearts over the opener there was no trick at all to reach the slam, or at least five-odd of a major. Just figure out the ensuing bidding for yourself, to see how easy it is.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

If West bids his hearts, East finally doubles 4-Spades and West leads two successive high hearts, how should South play this deal to make his contract?

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, Jan. 29.

The planetary situation bearing rule on the affairs of this day seems to leave it all to the personal choice and individual performance of those who are inspired by sincerity, steadfastness, perseverance, sound judgment and high purpose. Industry, hard work, loyalty, adaptability, with attention to details and practical programs should win the respect and substantial co-operation of employers, elders, superiors or others whose endorsements are vital to ambitious objectives. It is a time to work to such ends.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which their progress and enduring security and good fortune depend on their individual effort, with the substantial support of those whose aid, appreciation and responsibility are needful for progress and achievement. Industry, sincerity, sound ideas and practical abilities as well as capacity for details, system and executive charge should win this advance, even through speculative enterprises as well as old established vestments should also thrive.

A child born on this day should be earnest, loyal, practical, and possess such sterling characteristics as to win sound support from those in influence and also relatives, elders and friends.

Mother, This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Wonderful

Saves Real Money. No Cooking. Quick Results.

To get the most surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—a child could do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it beats them all for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really splendid cough syrup—about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a family a long time.

And for real, quick relief, it can't be beaten. It acts in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

GEN. JOHNSON: Favor New Pearl Harbor Investigations

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — An automobile is not like the famed one-horse chaise which ran its alloted span of 100 years and then collapsed into kindling wood in every part. Its average life from assembly line to junk heap is usually figured at about seven years. Sometimes it is a fraction of that.

Gen. Johnson.

A vital part goes sour and unless it can practically be made over it will never again be the same old wagon. Already I am getting reports of abandoned cars in ditches. One is of the case of a southern school-bus. One tire went hopelessly bad and, under local regulations, there was no way to replace it. Of course no automobile can run on three tires.

As has frequently been remarked here and elsewhere, this country has been thoroughly motorized in both farm and city living. The change from the days of Shank's mare and horse and buggy has practically remade the map.

Twenty-five years ago rural distribution of the products of industry was roughly based on distribution points (country stores) serving an area roughly seven or eight miles in radius. With horses and wagons that consumed a farmer's day to do his marketing—16 miles of travel at wagon-pace for the journey and the rest of the time getting ready, making the round-trip journey, and taking care of the stock in the evening.

With the coming of the automobile all that could be done in a couple of hours. The farmers sought better markets and the cross-roads stores began to disappear.

A similar and more familiar change occurred in cities, and especially among factory workers, as the urban population began to overflow into the more pleasant country.

It took years to make this change and it will take years to unmake it. It is easy to talk about going back to the wagon, horse and buggy. But where are they? The manufacture of horse-drawn transportation — once a leading industry—has now practically vanished. The horse and mule population has been decimated.

The sudden crack-down ban on automobiles and new and second hand tires is likely to create a catastrophe if something isn't done about it.

It is not an impossible problem, but it is a major one. There are perhaps 27,000,000 more or less usuable automobiles to do our motor-driven work. The hours and days that many of them stand idle and the small extent to which this capacity has been used, even when they are in service, has been one of the most disgraceful wastes in history.

Here are the elements of a solution. It will take organization, rigorous control and the co-operation of everybody, but we have a right to expect that at such a time.

So far, very little progress or preparation has been made in that direction. The powers granted Joseph Eastman as czar of transportation should be enough to make a start. If such is not the case, they should be sufficiently expanded to make a finish.

The whole transportation problem is a unit—rail, air, water, commercial truck and privately owned trucks and automobiles. A single controlling head of all, governing a nation-wide volunteer directing net in every community, could cut down our past woeful waste of these facilities to a point where war restrictions, instead of bringing a great slowing up or paralysis of our motorized economic system, would be merely an inconvenience.

BEGIN DEBATE ON EXTENDED WORKING HOURS

Labor Leaders Go to Columbus For Discussion; CIO Hits Permits For Workers.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The controversial question of whether wartime conditions necessitate relaxation of the state law regulating maximum working hours for women in industry came up for public debate today.

Invited by George A. Strain, director of industrial relations, to give their views, labor leaders came here with the CIO openly opposed to the state administration's policy of letting down the bars, even temporarily.

Ted F. Silvey, Ohio CIO secretary-treasurer, said before an open conference in the state office building that Strain's issuance of temporary permits to some industries was unnecessary and contrary to law and that he would advise local unions to oppose putting into practice Strain's policy of letting war contract firms work their women employes more than 45 hours a week.

"We contend that there is an unemployed pool of women large enough that industrial work can be scheduled so as to avoid overwork of any women," Silvey declared. "Fatigue under Strain's policy will cut production and accidents will increase."

Strain told Gov. John W. Bricker Dec. 19 that he was issuing temporary permits to certain manufacturers to work women employes overtime so as to keep production lines up to schedule without permitting the collapse or destruction of labor laws.

Strain said later that skilled female labor was not available to meet the needs and that "this was an emergency which had to be met." He added that the temporary permits would not be extended beyond six weeks unless the affected concerns showed that they were unable to secure or train the necessary skilled labor.

Governor Bricker backed Strain with the statement that "we are doing everything within our power to bring Ohio industry up to war demands. We will administer the law with justice, with the single purpose of winning the war."

Up and Down THE STREET

Johnny Appleseed's memory is evidently slipping from the minds of present day business men. At least, remembrance of the tree planter has escaped a commercial freight company. In delivering a load of lumber to the Mansfield junior high school, they addressed the waybill to "Johnny AppleSAUCE Junior high, Mansfield."

In a mild way, occupants of the third floor of the courthouse learned today what it's like to have objects falling from above in an air raid. As workmen cleaning out the attic of the courthouse hammered and shoveled junk in the big rooms at the top of the building, dirt and small pieces of plaster and bricks showered down into the third-floor offices. In some cases desks were moved and covers were spread over them. It was estimated that several thousand pounds of rubbish has been taken out of the attic in the past three days.

The ladies of First Methodist Circle 1 were out of seven pounds of butter costing $2.66 last night just at a time when they needed it the most. They were about ready to serve dinner to approximately 135 members of the Men's Brotherhood when Mrs. S. S. Little, dinner chairman, discovered that the butter was missing from the container in which it had been set outside the kitchen door to keep cool. The chairman notified the police department but no trace of the spread could be found and members of the dinner committee had to be dispatched to make another purchase.

"Keep them flying" is more than just a slogan at the municipal airport. With 12 training planes in the air on a "round the clock" basis, mechanics have found it impossible to overhaul the engines every few hundred hours so James R. Harrington, port manager, has purchased two additional motors and they are alternated among the aircraft. The change takes about four hours where an overhaul job normally requires about four days.

LEGISLATORS HIT FAILURE TO AID LUZON

Congressmen, Senators Would Conduct Separate Probes of Pacific Disaster.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Strong sentiment for separate investigations of United States losses at Pearl Harbor developed in two house committees today despite the detailed reports of the president's special commission headed by Justice Owen Roberts of the supreme court.

On the senate side of the capitol meanwhile, criticism arose because no reinforcements have been sent to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's beleaguered forces in the Philippines, so far as is publicly known.

Rep. Maas (R., Minn.) said many members of the house naval committee wanted to inquire into the "system which apparently broke down and led to Pearl Harbor."

"We should go back of the Roberts report," Maas said. "It is a fine document so far as fixing responsibility is concerned but there are implications that our system of operating the military and navy needs to be looked into."

At the same time, Chairman May (D., Ky.) said the house military committee might study conditions at the Hawaiian outpost but would wait until President Roosevelt or the war department had time to act.

(There has been no official indication that any further action would be taken by the administration.)

"As commander-in-chief of our armed forces," May said, "the president may, if he believes the facts in the Roberts report justify it, dismiss those responsible for what happened at Pearl Harbor. He may, if he wishes, turn the report over to the war and navy departments and request courts-martial. A third possibility is that the officers accused of negligence may themselves seek a court-martial so they can present their side of the case if they wish."

In the event none of those possibilities develops, the Kentuckian said, "I believe our committee should make an investigation of the military end of the situation."

Talking to reporters concerning reinforcements for the Philippines, Senator Clark (D. Mo.), said he was nettled that American equipment seemed to be going in large part to Europe instead of toward the southwest Pacific.

"It must have been a great source of comfort to General MacArthur to hear Churchill announce to the house of commons that we have plenty of bombers to send over Germany," he said with irony. "We ought to get some of those bombers out to the Philippines."

OHIOAN GIVEN HERO'S AWARD

Bellevue Lineman Honored For Saving Lives of Two Last Summer.

(By United Press)

PITTSBURGH—A Bellevue, Ohio, lineman who saved two persons from drowning in a Tennessee stream, was honored today by the Carnegie hero fund commission which awarded 18 bronze medals for heroic acts.

James Edward Burnette, 35, Bellevue, was awarded a bronze Carnegie medal for saving Frederick J. Moore, 31, watchmaker, and Maggie E. Ware, 27, from drowning at South Pittsburgh, Tenn., July 28, 1941.

The hero commission related Burnette's feat as follows:

"While swimming in Battle Creek, Mrs. Ware suffered a cramp and was submerged in water 12 feet deep, 60-feet from the bank.

"Moore swam to her, towed her five feet toward the bank, and there suffered a cramp and released her. Mrs. Ware sank.

"Burnette, who was clothed, then swam 50-feet to Moore, who struggled violently with him, Burnette being submerged twice.

"Burnette was fatigued and called for help. He then got hold of Moore, who was greatly weakened, and towed him to the bank. Dazed and nauseated, Burnette swam 60-feet to Mrs. Ware, lowered himself under the surface, and got hold of her. Rising to the surface, he swam towing her to the bank and then revived her. Burnette was near collapse."

COUNTRY DAY TEACHERS QUIT

Miss Cayford Succeeds Miss Shaneff as Supervisor.

Resignations of two Country Day school teachers, effective at the close of the school year, had been accepted today by the school's board of directors. The employment of a third teacher as supervisor for the school term of 1942-43 was also announced.

Miss Margaret Cayford, primary teacher for the past six years, has been employed as supervisor to succeed Miss Angeline Shaneff, who is resigning, in view of her approaching marriage, at the end of the school year. Miss Cayford will continue as primary teacher, according to Mrs. George Draffan, board president.

Miss Lella Graff, who came here from St. Louis to teach kindergarten at Country Day school three years ago, is resigning with the expectations of locating in a city closer to her home in Osborn, Missouri.

100 MORE ENROLL IN RED CROSS FIRST AID INSTRUCTOR'S CLASS

An instructors' first aid training class so large that it must be divided for more effective work will provide Richland County chapter of the Red Cross with approximately 100 more instructors for first aid classes by March 1.

More than 100 persons, both men and women, have started the 30-hour course at the American Legion home. They include 30 Mansfield school teachers, American Legion air raid wardens and assistant wardens, and other representatives from Richland county villages.

Bernard C. Hardy, Richland chapter first aid director and instructor of the class, said today that he would endeavor to divide the class so that the teachers would be in one unit for their work twice a week.

Instruction for both classes would then be held two nights a week for three hours a night so that the course could be completed by Feb. 27. All persons taking the course have met requirements for both standard and advanced first aid.

The Shelby Auto Call and Shelby Sales Book company have both registered for first aid detachments, Hardy said, and the present instruction class includes a few representatives from Ashland, Galion and Crestline. Hardy's delegation of authority from national headquarters permits him to train first aid instructors for six counties in this area.

Committee Would Bar Langer From Seat In Senate

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate elections committee reported today that Senator Langer (R., N. D.) was not entitled to a senate seat because of "a continuous, contemptuous, and shameful disregard for high concepts of public duty."

"The respondent (Langer,) the committee said, "has not avoided, and cannot avoid, the consequences of the acts of gross impropriety, lawlessness, shotgun enforcement, jail breaking, violation of oath as an attorney, rabble-rousing, civil disobedience, breach of the peace, obstruction of the administration of justice, and tampering with court officials. . . ."

Asserting that the integrity of the senate was at stake, the committee asked the chamber to deny membership to the former governor of North Dakota, and recommended that action be taken by a simple majority vote.

Filing of the committee report climaxed more than a year of investigations and public hearings on allegations made against Langer by a group of North Dakota petitioners.

Langer was seated "without prejudice" Jan. 3, 1941, and continues to serve with all the rights and privileges of a senator pending a final vote by the senate.

THEY LIKE HARD MONEY OUT IN SAN FRANCISCO

None of This Foldin' Stuff For Them—You Can't Hear It Fall.

By SIGRID ARNE

SAN FRANCISCO—(Wide World)—It started with a twenty dollar bill. It was all I had when I went to the delicatessen for cigarets.

Now, San Franciscans are a hardy race. They climb hills that would age a mountain goat before his years. And they demand hard money. None of these greenbacks for them.

They used to carry gold. But now that's out, they want silver, although change for twenty weighs just a half pound short of a small horse. The stranger finds it out slowly.

At the delicatessen Harry shoved the cigarets across the counter and slowly counted out the 19 silver dollars, and some chickenfeed. It looked like a good day's haul. For somebody else.

"But it won't go in my change purse," I protestd.

"S'all I got. S'help me. The folks on this block are all old San Franciscans," said Harry. "They won't take folding money. But I'll look."

He fidgeted through the cash register and came up with my twenty and a two-dollar bill.

I compromised on the silver, and Harry helped me stow it. Don't look now," I grumbled, "but I bet I've got a pack mule tied up at the door."

"Quit kidding," said Harry. "This is good money. That paper stuff is only a promise to pay." My suit pockets were too shallow for the silver.

"Say, you better tie them in your handkerchief," Harry suggested, then he added:

"You know, the young ones take paper money here now. Lots of business done with checks. You ever write checks?"

"Write checks! Say, I've written a check in a Chicago railroad station and cashed it. This is the siliest—"

But I never finished it. I suddenly sat down, with canned peas in my lap, and my day's haul of silver rolling all over. It seems a lady had entered with a Sealyham on a leash. He suspected mice in the backroom, and he had wrapped his leash around my ankles.

But Harry cheerfully caught three cartwheels before they settled.

The lady with the Sealyham sidled back and volunteered. "I've tried carrying paper money, my dear. But I lose it. I can't hear it when it drops. You from the East?"

"Yes."

"My husband says they're queer in New York. Never seen silver dollars. Why he takes $50 in silver every time he goes. Just to swap around."

"For what?"

"Oh, for paper money," she said. "Lots of people use it here now. The department stores always give it to you, if you wish."

Finally Harry put my cartwheels in a paper bag.

The next day I bought a money belt. It cost $2.95.

SIGNS UP 9TH TIME

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — If there was any feeling of excessive pride among 30 men waiting to enlist at the Army Recruiting station here, it must have shriveled away when William Chester walked in to sign up. Chester, chauffeur for Brig. Gen. William McCain, enlisted for his ninth term.

PROVISION MADE FOR THOSE WHO LOSE AUTO TAX STAMPS

Mansfielders whose auto use-tax stamps are lost, destroyed, or stolen may obtain certificates showing they have purchased the stamps, from local collectors of internal revenue upon making their claims and presenting proper evidence of their loss, it was learned today.

A report issued to the national office of the American Automobile association, received here, stated that collectors of internal revenue are being notified to issue letters or certificates to claimants where satisfactory proof is offered that the stamp was stolen, accidentely destroyed, or lost.

According to this statement and to local collectors of internal revenue, only collectors for their home district may handle these claims.

A previous ruling of the Bureau of Internal revenue stating that such stamps must be replaced, has been amended.

In answer to a number of inquiries regarding the liability of auto dealers, the A. A. A. bulletin stated that dealers are not required to purchase stamps for cars in storage or being demonstrated on the highway, unless they are registered in the dealer's own personal name.

Mansfield Auto club officials today urged motorists, purchasing stamps to place their stickers on the dashboard of their cars, and to fill out their own tax-stamp card to be mailed to the collector of internal revenue in Cleveland.

Deadline for acquiring stamp is Feb. 1.

NORWEGIANS ADD SKILL TO ICELAND PATROL

Sailors, Airmen Aid In Fight Against Foe; Say 'Norway Will Yet Be Free.'

By DREW MIDDLETON

REYKJAVIK, Iceland — (Correspondence of Wide World) — Thousands of Norwegian airmen and sailors, including many who escaped from Norway since the German occupation of their homeland, are holding the battle line with their British and American Allies in the struggle for the North Atlantic.

The Norwegian army is represented in Iceland by skiing instructors who are teaching British troops in the mountain valleys of this island.

All of them, from gnarled petty officers with twenty years' service on the high seas to fresh faced pilots, are obsessed with one idea, to re-enter Norway and drive the Germans out.

Norway, they tell you, "will yet be free."

Anti-submarine patrols by aircraft of the Royal Norwegian Naval Air Force are the most important job of the Norwegians in Iceland. Flying under command of the Royal Air Force, the Norwegians scout the frigid waters that encircle this island and venture hundreds of miles out to sea.

Their Northrop patrol bombers carry depth charges for use against submarines. The pilots' usual technique is to sweep very low when they sight a submarine and drop their "cans." Hunting was very good last summer, the pilots say, but is slow now.

Most of the pilots were trained in "Lille Norge" (Little Norway) near Toronto, Canada.

Periodically ships of the Royal Norwegian navy put in after patrol. Many of the seamen and officers fought in the brief naval actions around Oslo in April, 1940. Others were recruited from the large Norwegian merchant fleet.

The men of war are trim and businesslike and the handling of the ships is praised by British and American naval officers.

Because of the threat of German vengeance on their families, no individual escapes can be revealed.

But hundreds of the men escaped by small boats across the turbulent North Sea. Many of the ski instructors skied across the frontier into Sweden and then via Moscow, Ankara and Cairo reached Britain to take up arms against the Germans.

STUDY DECISION

After hearing arguments for and against the proposed abandonment of an alley in Ontario at a public hearing yesterday at the courthouse, county commissioners said they would withhold their decision until Friday.

Only one person objected to vacating the 200-foot alley which leads north from U. S. route 30-S, Commissioner C. L. Mitchell said.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Guy Van Nostrand starts work today as coach of Butler high school athletic teams, while Merrill Hall prepares to pack up and leave for a boy scout executive post in Kentucky.

Hall leaves conditions at Butler in exactly the same shape he found them when he took over just about a year ago. with the Bulldogs leading the Richland county league, and undefeated in loop play.

He hasn't any big Dave Grubb to turn over to the new mentor, but he does give him one of the best basketball players in the county circuit in Elwin "Red" Harris. So Van Nostrand is stepping into a pretty good spot.

The new Butler coach, who has obtained his release as mentor at Bladensburg high school in Knox county, has long been regarded as one of the best football guards ever turned out at Mt. Vernon high school.

He weighed only around 135 when he starred on a high-scoring Yellow Jacket team under Angus King back in 1930, but he was a bearcat on defense, and he really bowled 'em over leading interference in the double-wingback offense with which the Jackets of that day bewildered all opposition.

So he attended Ohio State where the gridiron powers promptly informed him he was too small for college football. Born 10 years too soon, that's all. I think Paul Brown would have looked him over.

Van Nostrand isn't entirely a stranger in the section of Richland county where he starts work today He's been playing baseball in that territory for these many years now, usually as a catcher.

His brother, Odie Van Nostrand, who played fullback for Coach Paul Snyder at Mt. Vernon, had a tryout two years ago with the Mansfield Braves as a southpaw hurler.

He looked pretty good, too, his first two times on the mound. and was overlooked thereafter.

By way of Fremont comes the word from Fostoria that the Red Birds have sold their lighting equipment, and wouldn't be able to start the 1942 Ohio State league baseball season if the league is continued.

And Tiffin reports the sale of its slugging outfielders, Chuck "Bum Dogs" Gerlach Vic Sanders and Ray "Daniel" Boone to Ogden, Utah, in the Pioneer league, along with Shortstop Kenny King. All the sales were conditional. Let's see. How many times was Sanders sold that way last summer?

January 30 deadline for teams to post guarantees for Ohio State league play isn't so far away, but no one appears much concerned about it.

All Stars Win Tilt In Settlement Loop

Despite a 25-13 walloping they received from the All Stars yesterday the Goons remained today in top position in the Friendly House Intermediate White cage league. In the other match the Tigers passed the Red Birds, 28-23.

* * *

Standings today find the All Stars and the Tigers tied for second place with two games won and lost each. The Red Birds are in third spot with one victory and three losses.

LESNEVICH WORKS OUT FOR BOUT IN PRIVATE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gus Lesnevich's last workout yesterday for the 10-round bout in which the world light heavyweight boxing champion will meet Bob Pastor tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden was held in private.

The doors of the gym were barred as Lesnevich went through a final hard drill that featured seven rounds of sparring. The secrecy was ordered by the champion's handlers, without explanation.

Tygers Invade Bellevue

Hoffman Experiments With New Combination.

MANSFIELD HIGH'S revamped Tygers take to the road tomorrow night in an invasion of Bellevue where they are expected to turn in their ninth victory of the season against five defeats.

Coach Vern Hoffman has indicated Jim Robinson or Joe Aitamonte will start at guard in place of the graduated Jack Shiplet, but whoever starts will be in there experimentally.

If the new combination should fail to click, Hoffman said today, Bob Winbigler may go back to his old guard post with Joe Romano returning to his old forward position.

From here it doesn't look like Bellevue will give any Tyger combination a real test. Thus far Coach Hoffman's old school has won just two games, from Oberlin and Port Clinton, and lost nine.

Bellevue's team is composed of sophomores and juniors, with Gerber, a sophomore center, leading the scoring. Frost is a good long shot, but the team as a whole is too small to control the ball under the hoops, and doesn't get the ball enough to offer real competition.

Hoffman has been giving his hoopsters practice on foul shooting this week in an effort to improve the 50 per cent average to which they've dropped recently in the free toss department.

* * *

The Tyger reserves also make the trip tomorrow night, being scheduled for a preliminary tilt.

Bradley for Twilight Tilts

Tribe Chief Attempts To Curtail Night Baseball.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Alva Bradley would like to put seven twilight games into the baseball season and tweak the hands of the clock for the week-day games.

The Indians' president also is a strong advocate of holding the number of night games to seven, but pessimistically believes the American league moguls in the New York meeting next week will stretch the number of after-dark contests to 14, and bows to the prospect.

In which case, he proposes seven as an appropriate number for the gambols in the gloaming.

"If St. Louis, Washington or some of the other American league clubs want to play 14 night games it's all right with me," said Bradley.

"I am against a bigger increase, however, and will oppose any attempt by other teams to get the Indians to play more than two night games in their parks.

"With the new daylight savings time in effect it will be possible to start twilight contests at 6:30 p. m. and complete them before dark.

"The new time will delay the start of night games. Last season we didn't get them under way until about 8:40. I hope to get them started this season about 9.15. If they begin any later it will be after midnight before the fans get home."

Week-day contests should be started at 4 p. m., Bradley contended, to "enable men who work the 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. shifts at factories to get out to the games. Starting time on Saturdays will remain 2 o'clock as was the case last year."

Bradley's proposal to President Will Harridge that the twilight games be considered next week is expected to get support from the Detroit Tigers, and probably from those opponents of night games, the New York Yankees. These two, and Boston, are the American league clubs which have no lighting systems in their parks.

Packer on the boys team and Mary Lee Webber, Alice Kaisminski, Barbara King, Carolyn Hoffman, Marjorie Henry, Dorthy Ohler, Peggy Ann Iden, Elaine Watson and Dorothy Zielder on the girls' squad.

Honolulu Still Has Sport But It Wears Gas Mask

HONOLULU — (AP) — Sports, stowed away among the moth balls by the December doings out at Pearl Harbor, are venturing out again in these sports-loving islands.

On the golf course or at the ringside, though, the marks of war are visible.

Boxers must train after a full day's work and the fans must become accustomed to witnessing their efforts by daylight. Followers of the fairways find new hazards, new pars or bogeys and must expect revisions of their handicaps. Such are the fortunes of war.

Splitting the fairways may have been all right back in the days before P. H. (Pearl Harbor), but it's different now. That old pellet may be split, instead, by a barbed wire barricade, or deflected into a wartime bunker by sewer pipes zigzagging about on the surface, presumably to prevent enemy planes landing.

Your favorite resting tee, or that tricky green that intrigued you because it always baffled you, may no longer be there. Some of them have been plowed up to make emergency landing fields for defending planes. And, Ah! that nineteenth hole—well, it's been a war casualty since the first bomb dropped out at the naval base. Whether the ban will be lifted, or lifted, is as good a guess as when the Japs will come again.

None of the clubs is sponsoring tournaments. Golfers just go out and pick their way around for recreation. Not enough of them can get off work, or duty, at one time to scare up a tournament

Quite an eye opener was the first daylight boxing event, a recent Sunday in the Civic auditorium. Some fifteen hundred of the faithful were on hand but the atmosphere was different. Gone were most of the jeers, or cheers. Sitting in broad daylight in full view of everyone seemed somehow to have made fans bashful or self-conscious.

Different, too, were the boxers. After all, one shouldn't expect too much of men who must train after a day's full work. Getting in a few practice blows after work and before the curfew doesn't put a man in top condition.

Then there is a shortage of sparring partners. Eddie Salazar, local slugger who took a six round decision over another Hulan, Eddie Townsend, in the first daylight show, doubtless thanked his wife for helping him to win. She was trading punches with him in their home basement training quarters when Promoter Leavitt dropped in one night to see how Eddie was coming along. Eddie, a defense worker, cannot get a gym for training.

"They really let some stiff punches fly at each other," said Leavitt after watching the domestic sparring.

OREGON TAKES FIRM CONTROL OVER TIMBER

Fire Protection Extended and Logging Curbs Are Tightened.

(By United Press)

SALEM, Ore.—Oregon, which has the largest acreage of standing timber in the United States, has taken drastic steps to protect that timber, which is the state's most valuable crop.

Forest fires which race through the crowns of trees hundreds of years old have devastated vast areas of the virgin timber already, costing the state millions of dollars.

With the increased use of the forests as recreational areas and now the defense boom which has almost doubled the number of men and power driven machines in the woods, the fire hazard is increasing alarmingly.

Added to the fire hazard is the ever more direct threat that the state's vast reserves eventually will be depleted, as has happened in many other states, by indiscriminate cutting without leaving seed trees to propagate as new crop.

Oregon's Douglas fir, which comprises most of the timber, is a hard, low growing wood which, unlike the southern pine, cannot be harvested as a fairly quick-growing crop, and any move to protect it must necessarily be a long range one.

Gov. Charles A. Sprague of Oregon recognized these complex problems, and presented to the legislature the first comprehensive conservation program to be enacted in any state. The legislature went down the line and passed the 16 measures he advocated.

The most sweeping of the laws is one dealing with sustained yield. Under its provisions no timber may be cut anywhere in the state unless seed trees of sufficient size to cary on propagation are left standing. Only trees above a certain size may be cut—timber authorities agree that trees do get "ripe" and should be cut some time—and the law carries sufficient teeth so that the state forestry department may enforce it to the letter.

As a method of checking fires, the forestry department was directed to follow each fire to its source and if possible to fix the blame for its starting. The governor was granted authority to close the forest areas to logging as early as April 1, long before the usual dry season begins.

The burning of lopped-off limbs and other forest refuse will be strictly regulated. Campers will be watched to see that they start no camp fires that they are not prepared to smother completely at a moment's notice.

Other phases of the program authorize the state to acquire forest lands by purchase, gift, donation or exchange for other property, and 200,000 in utility bonds were authorized for such purchase.

The counties of the state have taken over 1,000,000 acres of good, bad and indifferent timber land through tax foreclosure. Much of it has been badly administered. The state will take it over for administration, returning 75 per cent of any revenues to the counties and retaining the remainder to finance the forest development program.

Timber men, particularly those not conected with commercial enterprises, have pronounced the state's new timber policy to be 20 years ahead of that in any other state.

Loot Ring Head

Charged by treasury agents with being the chief of a smuggling ring which disposed of German war loot in the United States to pay for Axis propaganda, Werner Von Clemm is pictured as he was brought into New York City's federal court. It was claimed that the ring Clemm headed had disposed of millions of dollars worth of diamonds and precious gems in the United States that had been seized by the Nazis during their invasion of the Netherlands and Belgium.

Police To Stage Annual Auction At City Hall Feb. 14

Police headquarters will look more like a pawn shop or auction hall on Saturday, Feb. 14, because on that day, police will auction off scores of articles confiscated or recovered during the past year.

Thermos bottles, kiddie cars, suitcases with contents unknown, blow torches, cameras, shotguns, tires, bicycles, storage batteries and several other articles—all will go under the auctioneer's hammer.

Police Lieut. Bruce Friday will act as auctioneer for the sale of the goods and the proceeds, less expenses, will go to the Police Relief fund.

The articles have been recovered by police during the last twelve months. They are held 30 days for their owners to claim them. Then, if they are not needed as evidence in any case, they are released for sale.

How to make Pillsbury's Southern
Butter-Pecan Pie
Your husband's favorite (from now on)

Complete recipe:

1. Sift and measure 1 c. Enriched Pillsbury's Best Flour; add ½ tsp. baking powder (optional) and ½ tsp. salt; sift together. (Two B-vitamins and iron are added to Pillsbury's Best, with no change in flavor, color, or baking quality.) 2. Cut in ⅓ c. shortening until size of small peas. 3. Add 2 to 3 Tbsps. cold water gradually until dough is moist enough to hold together. Chill. 4. Roll out to about ⅛-in. thickness. Fold pastry over, place loosely in 9-in. pie pan; flute edge. 5. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 min. (The tender flakiness of Pillsbury's pie crust is a credit to your judgment in choosing Pillsbury's Best, the BAKE-PROVED flour. Every single hour during milling, samples are tested for creamy, uniform color . . . and 4 to 6 times a day actual baking tests are made. Uncertain Destiny + + + + + +

CHAPTER XX

Un-noticed. Linda slipped out of the library and up the steps once more to the powder room. When she had secured her wrap and freshened her make-up, she retraced her steps to the foyer below.

Greg was standing at the foot of the stairs, an expression of sulkiness evident on his dissipated features. Linda stared at him, seeing him through new eyes. So this—this was the man she had fancied herself to love. This—Beau Brummel!

"Greg!" She smiled at him. "I've been looking everywhere for you. I—I'm not feeling very well and I don't want to spoil the party for Steve. Would you take me home, please?"

If Greg was surprised at her change of heart, he gave no sign. "Of course, Linda," he agreed. "I'll go and get the car."

"But shouldn't you leave word for Diane? You're together, aren't you?"

"She'll be all right."

The abrupt way he dismissed Diane from his thoughts made Linda realize more and more that the man had no consideration for anyone other than himself, and while he hurried away for his car, Linda penciled brief notes to Steve and Diane and summoned a footman to deliver them. Then, resolutely, she went out to join Greg.

Sitting rigidly in his speeding car, eyes fixed on the winding Lakeshore Drive, Linda scarcely heard his caseless monologue. Hot tears filled her eyes and heart, and a still, small voice far back in her brain repeated the words, "You're walking out on Steve . . . walking out . . . walking out . . . Steve! Steve, I love you and it's too late. Too late."

Dimly she heard Greg's voice: "But to think I'd come to Chicago and find you! And what a change you've undergone, Linda. You're beautiful. Absolutely beautiful!"

"Thank you, Greg." Automatically. "You don't think I'm drab and—and just a small-town girl, any more?"

"I was a fool to go away," he declared passionately. "Linda, believe me when I say I didn't know you took our little flirtation seriously. I'd forgotten you until I learned I had to go to Kansas City, and Diane suggested I drop into her home-town and call on you."

Every word he uttered made Linda realize more than ever how foolish she had been, but she endured him silently.

"When you barged into Chicago and I saw you in Diane's apartment, I didn't know what to do. Diane wanted me to tell you the truth then, but you looked so darned innocent, and I—" He laughed ruefully "—I didn't have nerve enough. I knew this job in Brazil was open, so I took it."

"I . . . understand you've done very well there. You're returning to Brazil next month, aren't you?"

"Linda!" He pulled the car to the side of the road and turned off the switch. "Don't evade things, darling. The minute I saw you across the dance floor tonight I realized how I had missed you. I'm crazy about you, Linda."

He made a move to take her in his arms, but Linda, conscious of a sudden revulsion, struggled from him.

"No, no, Greg," she cried. "This is all wrong. I'm not free even to listen to you."

"Why not? Don't you love me?"

"I—I'm married to Steve."

Greg laughed sardonically. "So what? You married him only because I—" He floundered and stopped abruptly.

"Why don't you go on?" She demanded bitterly. "Say I married him because you jilted me and I had nowhere to turn."

"I guess I had that coming to me," Greg said humbly. "I'm sorry, Linda. I'll take you home now."

Linda awakened the next morning with a splitting headache, to face a somber day. Staring from her bedroom window at the rain clouds lurking overhead, she was conscious of a feeling of defeat. She remembered Greg's words, and Brenda's too. So everyone knew that she was still madly in love with Greg. Everyone, that is, except Linda herself. At last a sadder and wiser woman left the bedroom, to find Steve at breakfast, engrossed in the morning papers.

He smiled pleasantly when she appeared, and his familiar, crooked grin stabbed Linda to the heart.

"This is an unaccustomed pleasure," he said with a trace of irony, "having my wife breakfast with me. I'm sorry you weren't feeling well last night, and couldn't stay at the party. Did Greg bring you home at a reasonable hour?"

Linda looked up sharply, but Steve did not meet her startled gaze. He seemed completely absorbed in the newspapers beside his plate, and Linda realized that he had expected no answer to his question.

Linda scarcely touched her grapefruit. For the first time she was conscious of Steve as a man—the man she loved. Before she had regarded him as a gentleman, polite, always impersonal, an individual to help her forget her heartache. Now, seeing this lithe, muscular figure, the bronzed skin and amused blue eyes, Linda was filled with a sense of shame that she had not long before recognized Steve for the man he really was. She longed to break down the polite barrier between them, to know his thoughts, to share his happiness and disappointments.

"What a fool I've been," she told herself.

"What's the matter this morning?" Steve surveyed her suddenly. "Aren't you feeling well?"

"Perfectly," Linda lied. "I was just thinking."

"About what?"

"That I've never yet seen the zoo or the planetarium or museum," Linda named the points of interest in a desperate attempt to hold Steve's attention, if only for a little while. "Your sister Mary promised to take me sightseeing, but since she's under the weather—"

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

WHOPPER

MIDVALE, Utah—(U.P.)—Alma Hogenson, 73-year-old Midvale farmer, believes he is the "champion sugar beet grower in the intermountain West."

To prove his assertion, he exhibited three beets weighing 19, 15 and 14 pounds. Hogenson said only once before in his 55 years of sugar beet raising had he harvested a larger beet. That was in 1934, when he plowed up a beet weighing a little more than 20 pounds.

Japan proper, which occupies 56 per cent of the whole empire, is larger than England or Italy.

STOCK MARKET HELD BACK BY TIMID SELLERS

War News Fails To Revive Speculative Interest, Buyers Take Rest.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The stock market was unable to shake off timid sellers today and leading issues generally duplicated the slightly lower drift of Wednesday.

Lacking much early support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck and Woolworth.

There was little in the war news to revive flagging speculative spirits, brokers said, and the broadening of governmental economic controls, combined with the darker tax outlook, kept many potential buyers in the do-nothing ranks.

Analytical forces discerned a constructive market indicator in the compilation of the Engineering News-Record disclosing heavy engineering awards for the week ended Tuesday touched the highest weekly aggregate since last August. Volume was placed at 74 per cent above a week ago and 124 per cent over the comparable 1941 period. The review said contracts for the year to date of $628,780,000 exceeded the same time last year by 7½ per cent.

Some satisfaction was derived from the Dun & Bradstreet survey showing bank clearings in 23 cities for the week concluded yesterday continued to maintain their wide margin of increase over the preceding year.

PIQUA MAN COULD SOON NOTICE A BIG DIFFERENCE IN THE WAY HE FELT

Claims his sleep was broken several times each night by disturbing night risings. Suffered pains and cramps in legs and hips. Bee Bee's gave him splendid results.

"I was always well until last months, I suffered from a serious kidney trouble which caused unlimited sufferings," says Mr. Grant Blossom R R No 7 Hamilton, O.

MR. GRANT BLOSSOM

"My sleep and rest was broken several times each night by too frequent kidney actions. The urine passages were accompanied by a torturing burning and smarting sensation which made it still more burdensome My back, arms, wrists, legs and hips were full of sharp pains. My muscles and joints were so stiff and sore. Dizziness and spots before my eyes were common and aggravating.

"After taking Bee Bee's for only a few days I could notice a big difference in the way I felt. Those terrible cramps and backaches are only a memory now and nightly risings have been reduced. Before I used Bee Bee's my wrists were so stiff and swollen if I turned my hand or lifted something my wrists were full of pain.

"I am recommending Bee Bee's to everyone who suffers with kidney trouble. Try it, and see for yourself."
